NEWSLETTER

ILEDA
Erasmus +

"Improving online and blended learning with educational data analytics"

TEACH THE TEACHERS

Belgrade Metropolitan University organized a multiplier event "Teach the Teachers" Niš, held at Metropolitan's campus on . Teach the teachers seminar was accredited by the Institute for Education and Professional Development (ZUOV) of Republic of Serbia.

Speakers:

- Professor Dr. Miroslava Raspopović Milić
- Assistant Professor Dr. Nemanja Zdravković
- Teaching Assistant Jovana Jović
- Educational methodologist Milena Petrović

During the event, the results and topics of the ILEDA project were presented, where our professors and active project participants successfully shared their methods and approaches to active learning with the focus on flipped classroom and project-based learning, as well as methods and developed learning analytics tools that teachers can apply in their instruction with students.
Many teachers expressed great satisfaction and characterized this gathering as one of the best they have attended in their long and rich careers.

TOPICS COVERED DURING THE GATHERING INCLUDED:

- Models and benefits of online and blended learning implementation
- Principles of active learning
- Lesson planning for the flipped classroom
- Good practice example: Flipped classroom in practice
- Developing a lesson plan for the flipped classroom (based on participants' subjects)
- Challenges and opportunities for implementing the flipped classroom and active learning in online and hybrid teaching
- Application of technology in online and hybrid teaching
- Learning analytics and student progress monitoring

In line with the seminar's theme, the participants were very active and shared their teaching experiences, raised their issues and questions to our lecturers. The training included interactive work, development of their own plans, and participation in engaging activities related to problem-based learning and the flipped classroom.